

WAS WESTERVELT RATTLED?

The Pitcher Says He Was All Right in the Unlucky Ninth.

Declarations for the Kentucky Derby—Sporting Notes.

Huyler Westervelt, the young pitcher whom Treasurer Talcott persuaded to forsake the amateur ranks for his professional league team, who has given words to have had the New York win yesterday.

It was Westervelt's first full professional game in his own town, and a big crowd of his old friends "on the street" (Huyler having been employed in Deacon White's office) sat on the bleachers rooting in dead earnest for him. The young pitcher was discomfited, and apparently very nervous, and he may have been a bit dizzy when he was hurled into the game yesterday.

Club are pretty active these days, getting ready for the campaign now close at hand. The Eastern Athletic Club in the metropolitan district this season, it is possible, among the teams who may be seen on the track almost any evening are Rinn, Sam Liebold, Munde, Ryan, Levy, Kantrowitz, Donahue, Hollander, Huntington, Adee, Freshburg, Mallon, Murburg and Farley.

A Buffalo dispatch says that the much-talked-of two-mile trotting match for the championship of the world between C. M. Smith's Nightingale (2:10) and I. H. Miller's Greenlander (2:12) has been postponed. A forfeit of $500 has been posted by both owners. The conditions will be best two in three for $5,000, the race to take place during the circuit races at Buffalo and August. Nightingale last year placed the two-mile record at 4:33.4, which Greenlander later reduced to 4:32. Both of these records were against time.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: "Dilemma of the king of trotting stallions, may not be seen on the track this year. While he was being driven from Dublin to Pleasanton, Cal., to take his place in the training stable of Hickox, he fell, badly injuring both his forelegs. One of them is so badly injured that it is doubtful whether he will be able to stand training again. The Chicago Inter-Ocean says that the injury comes through The Breeder and Sportsman."

B. H. Benton, for Dan Creedon, issued a challenge to Bob Fitzsimmons last night at Cincinnati to fight for the middle-weight championship of the world, 158 pounds, allowing Fitzsimmons to weigh at 3 o'clock on the day of the contest, the match being on the terms Fitzsimmons may name, before the Olympic Club, New Orleans, or in England. The terms of the letter are very personal and abusive.

The following comes from Louisville, Ky.: "Secretary Price has announced twenty-eight declarations for the Kentucky Derby, to be run May 15. The entries are: Advocate, Mechanic, Gulf Stream, Guiding Star, Jockey, Foxglove, Square Fellow, King Charles, Glenside, Chondage (Triana), Dury, Glenside, The Croaker, The Iron Horse, Calumet, Splendour, Ren Avon, Patti, Walcott, Resplendent, Alonzo, Saddlebag, Newark, Crevasse."

J. P. Murphy and Dan Newman, lightweight pugilists of Cambridge, met in a finish glove contest at the Camden Street Club, Murphy last night before 200 spectators. Murphy had it all his own way from the start, and at the end of the fifth round was declared the winner.

At Manchester, England, yesterday, John Roberts, the champion at English billiards, made an unfinished break, which was not barred, but he was out of order by 166 points. He will resume his play to-morrow.

On Monday night, May 7, the Ravenswood Boat Club, will about wind up for this season. As they have about twenty boats for first and second prizes, and the classes down to the best men in each, the sparring will be of a very high order.

Bob Ferguson, the well-known boxer, followed by his east defeat of George Siddons, gave his Brooklyn friends so much confidence in his boxing ability, that they were willing to back him against the remarkable colored lad for a good-sized sum. Should he make a favorable impression in his bout with Griffo there is no doubt but that efforts will be made to match him against the winner of the Dixon griffo encounter, which takes place in Boston, June 23.

The students of the University of Pennsylvania are indignant at the attempt of Manager Arthur Irwin, of the Philadelphia Club, to secure the services of Goetzke, their fine first baseman. They say Irwin was actuated by selfish motives and might as well leave the college taste to wait until the end of the college season. The feeling against Irwin is all the more bitter because of the heretofore friendly relations between the professionals and the collegians. Goetzke is a splendid player and he is one of the best first basemen that ever covered that bag. He is a splendid hitter and can go up down the line for balls and come back with them.

CRIME OF AN OFFICIAL.

Dr. Parkhurst Says His Treatment of a Woman Was Outrageous.

The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst's statement concerning the "misdeeds of one whose association with the courts would seem to afford proof of integrity of mind and purity of heart," created much comment in political circles, and particularly in the District-Attorney's office.

The statement was made last night in an attack upon the Freshman, the meeting of the Baptist Social Union in the Windsor Hotel.

"I had the story from her own lips to-day," said Dr. Parkhurst. "Seventy-five per cent. of you would recognize her name. I have seen and heard her treatment of this man who has been prominently associated with the office of District-Attorney of this city."

When he was seen at his house this morning by an "Evening World" reporter, Dr. Parkhurst would add little to what he said last night.

"The woman," he said, "bears an honored name and belongs to a splendid family. She came yesterday seeking my assistance and advice. So far as I know now, she does not intend to resort to legal measures to right her wrongs."

Dr. Parkhurst declined to give the young woman's name in confidence, so that she might be seen and her consent obtained to publication of her story.

Asked whether he expected anything of a political nature, he said: "I would recognize next week or early the week following, Dr. Parkhurst said, emphatically: 'Yes sir; I do.'"

Continuing, Dr. Parkhurst said that the City Vigilance League would at once inaugurate an active campaign, which would be continued till November.

Then the Doctor gave Gov. Flower a shot. He was speaking of his nomination last night of Senator Saxton for Governor.

"I told Senator Saxton," said he, "what a different feeling the people would have toward him if he sat in the Governor's chair. Senator Saxton made a splendid record. There was no cracking in it. He is a man of splendid fibre and is making a hard fight for good Government."

In the absence of District-Attorney Fellows this morning, Vernon M. Davis, assistant District-Attorney, was in the office. He said he hadn't the faintest idea as to who Dr. Parkhurst referred to in his political appointment.

"I couldn't undertake," added Mr. Davis, "to care for the morals of all the politicians connected with the District-Attorney's office."

The result of the first serious divergence lay before her in the shape of the young man's letter addressed to Miss M., and she was regarding it with somewhat rueful countenance.

That she had made preparations to carry out her part of the programme was apparent. She had written a letter to "La France" languishing in a specimen glass beside the letter. The room was in a house in M— Square, and there was still an hour and a half before her presence would be required at the particular corner in Regent street. She had no cause to fear any difficulty in keeping her appointment.

The door opened and a second girl entered—tall, fair, aristocratic. The first was fair also, but her hair was irrepressible, and fell over her forehead and round her ears in uncrimped waves and curls; that of the new-comer was drawn tightly back, and was tied into a smooth knot behind on a well-shaped head.

"Oh, Editha, you darling! how sweet you are to come this afternoon."

The gray-gowned girl jumped up and threw her arms around her friend's neck. She was impulsive in all her actions.

"I haven't long to stay, Kittie—just half an hour. I must go down Oxford street to do some shopping. Can't you come?"

Kittie hesitated; her letter was in her pocket.

"No, Editha, I said slowly; 'not this afternoon. I—I have a toothache.'"

BIG SHOOT AT RIVERTON.

Twenty-two Entries for the Challenge Plate.

RIVERTON, N. J., May 4.—One of the most important pigeon shooting handicaps of the year was begun on the Riverton Gun Club's grounds this morning.

The contest is for the Riverton Challenge Plate, at fifty birds, handicap rise, fifty yards boundary; entrance fee, $50. The trophy is a handsome and costly silver plate, which becomes the personal property of the contestant who succeeds in winning it three successive years. There are twenty-two entries, all crack shots, comprising about all of the noted amateurs. As each man shoots at fifty birds there will be 1,100 birds trapped before the match is over. In order to complete it in one day two ranges are in use. Small balls numbered from 1 to 22, were distributed to the contestants before the match commenced this morning. The eleven men receiving odd numbers are to shoot at twenty-eight yards, and the even-numbered birds from the other score, while those receiving even numbers and shoot at the second lot of birds.

Following is a list of the entries with handicaps: C. Murphy, L. P. Thompson, Fred Hoey, Charles Macalester, R. C. Welch, Oakleigh Thorne, D. S. Thomas and Yale Dolan, who are not on the thirty-yard mark; Frederick Moore, Capt. Money, J. B. Ellison, Ed. Ward, Handy and J. F. Davenport, at twenty-nine yards; W. Wynn, Aubrey Lillingham, J. Scaver Page and Dr. Knap, at twenty-eight yards; and Clarence Dolan, Noel Money, L. Finletter, E. Godschalk and W. W. Watrous, at twenty-seven yards.

Our Establishment is so well known that no further guarantee is needed than to say that we give personal attention to this branch of our business and guarantee complete satisfaction in every respect.

Mrs. Anderson Says Jacob Labinsky Attacked Her.

Jacob Labinsky, of 15 Union street, Brooklyn, was held for examination by Justice Tighe in the Butler Street Police Court, Brooklyn, to-day on the charge of hurting Mrs. Mary Anderson, who lives at the same address, with a hatchet.

The Labinskys and Andersons have not been on good terms, and Mrs. Anderson says that when she went into the cellar to get some wood, she met Labinsky, who stood in her way. She says she asked him to move, and that he refused to do so, and turning quickly, made a pass at her with a hatchet, cutting her hand.

Labinsky says that Mrs. Anderson tried to take the hatchet away from her and scratched her hand.
